A piece of the past

The Ramsey's Department Store sign is removed Wednesday by Pass Christian subcontractor Southern Signs. A landmark for 50 years or more, Ramsey's at one time dressed the populace of Bay St. Louis and surrounding areas in the latest of fashions. Sign removal contractor Laney Ladner of American Signs of Long Beach, is offering the sign free of charge to anyone wishing to claim it. Ladner said he will keep the sign at his shop until February 5; following that date it will be cut for scrap metal. To claim the sign call 863-2604 or 863-3674. (Echo staff photo by Jacqui Cochran)

Port Bienville park fatality forces improved communication

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The death of a worker at Port Bienville Industrial Park has resulted in a clearer understanding by GE Plastics as to the role of local authorities.

GE spokesman Sherry Wood-ry reported prior to Tuesday's accident, plant policy dictated notification of local authorities only during times of impact to surrounding communities.

About 1 p.m. Tuesday, Franklin Kent, 37, sustained injuries when a high-pressure oxygen distribution tank ruptured at the GE Plastics plant located in the industrial park.

Woodry stated, the site's emergency medical technicians responded to the accident and Kent was transported to North-Shore Regional Medical Center in Slidell, La., where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Neighborhood Watch contributes to decrease in crime rate in Bay

BY LIZ HAAS

Between 1991 and 1992 the crime rate in Bay St. Louis dropped 60 percent due to the Crime Prevention program, according to Crime Prevention Specialist Jim Clark.

Clark is with the Bay St. Louis Police Department Crime Prevention Unit.

With a three to four minute response time to anywhere in the city, 911 has been able to respond quickly to calls.

The Crime Prevention program was established years ago in this area but has never been funded.

It has been operating under a state grant since 1991.

Twenty neighborhoods are currently under the police department's Neighborhood Watch.

"Neighborhood Watch groups were established several years ago, but not under the police department," said Clark. "Now we're trying to get them to reorganize with us."

Scott played soccer for Bay High and was a great player. Most of us knew Scott or saw him play at Bay High. Some of us tried to practice with him.

Lossing Scott is a great loss to our town and our lives. He was a grand person and a good friend to everyone who knew him.

Mr. Tom Demboski asked Coach Kathy MacDowell to win the night's game against St. Stanislaus. (When she told us that she was crying.)

The last time we played them they beat us. We will try to beat them, but we will dedicate this game to Scott, and no matter what happens we will do our best and never hang our heads. (The last time that we played our hardest, and he will respect

With Seal, president and chief executive officer of Hancock Bank, is university President Donald Zacharias, left, and college Dean Harvey Lewis. In 1987, Seal gave $86,000 to set up the teaching laboratory. In conjunction with the Bay St. Louis resident's latest gift, the college received a $10,000 check from Bank of Wiggins President Jim Rabby and $5,000 worth of computer network adapters from Granville E. Barker of Starkville.

Watch program, residents are advised on what to look for and how to report what is seen. Residents provide each other with mutual support to maintain safe neighborhoods.

The citizens join together in the fight against crime.

"We usually have about 60 percent participation with the neighborhoods," said Clark.

A Neighborhood Watch group usually consists of four to six blocks.

"Crime Prevention teaches people to take the extra time to secure their homes," said Clark.

Lieutenant Don Ocio is the public relations officer in charge of the Crime Prevention Unit.

How do you establish a Neighborhood Watch in your area? Interested parties should call the Crime Prevention office and an officer will personally give them an overview of the program.

The police make flyers and personally invite neighbors to the meetings.

The first meeting is Operation Identification, teaching people to mark all items in the home so they can identify possessions if lost or stolen.

The second meeting is on home security. The residents take a security survey and officers offer to go into any home and check the entire home and property to give them ideas and approaches on how to better secure their property.

"People just need to be aware and not take their safety for granted," said Clark.

There was a meeting Monday night at the Crime Prevention office to discuss setting up a Neighborhood Watch for Vine Circle, Sunset Drive, Beyer Drive, Woods Place and the section of Carroll Avenue north of Highway 90.

Their second meeting will be February 3.

Other programs the Crime Prevention office offers are: child identification program, coats for kids, assistance to the elderly and senior citizens, Explorer Post, McGruff House program, drug and alcohol program, women's awareness, and bicycle safety. They are also starting a program on seat belt awareness.

Four found guilty on hunting violations

BY LIZ HAAS

Four people were found guilty Tuesday by the Hancock County Justice Court on three hunting violations.

Deloris A. Darenbourg of Bay St. Louis, Isaac J. Darenbourg of Bay St. Louis, Sheril C. Powell of Bay St. Louis and Thomas E. Powell of Pearlington were all found guilty on three charges.

For the charge of headlighting deer, they were fined $500 each plus court costs. They were each fined $100 plus costs on the charge of hunting from a motorized vehicle and were charged $100 plus costs on the charge of hunting from a public road.

The four individuals were arrested November 18 on Highway 604 in Pearlington and charged with three hunting violations, according to Jim Walker, public relations director for Mississippi State Wildlife and Fisheries Department.

A 1978 Ford LTD along with two 22 caliber rifles were confiscated at the time of arrest. The convicted persons have 40 days to appeal the decision to the Circuit Court or their goods will be sold.

"We don't want a waiting driver to be encouraged to run the crossing."

"It is very frustrating," he commented, "no matter how many dollars you spend on warning systems, to know there are people who still ignore the dangers."

"It is most frightening from the engineer's standpoint, for he must approach every crossing in anticipation of a car darting across."

Kent was a sub-contract worker with Industrial Demolition of New Orleans and was engaged in dismantling work in a non-operational section of the plant.

Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Matt Karl reported, the sheriff's department received notification about 4:30 p.m., by county coroner Norma Stiglet, only after she received a phone call from the St. Tammany Parish coroner's office.

Karl said, "It appeared Kent was cutting up scrap when he ran out of oxygen in a low-pressure tank. They dropped off another tank to him; whether he knew the difference or not, I don't know, but it was a high-pressure tank."

"There were no gauges or regulators attached. The hose ran straight to the manifold. The manifold couldn't hold the pressure and he was standing over it when it erupted."

"From where the victim was standing, the manifold was 60-80 feet and there was debris about 110 feet away."

Woodry said Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) area director Clyde Payne stated James Pinnix is investigating the accident and a report will be completed within six months.

Sheriff Ronnie Peterson reported Wednesday he met with GE Plastics representatives and an agreement was reached that in the event of any serious injury they notify local authorities.

"I don't believe they realized we are mandated by the state to investigate any death," he commented.

"I explained to them that if they had just called 911 we could have had Mobile Medic there faster and advised them of the situation."

"As it was, we were not notified until three to three-and-a-half hours later."

Woodry confirmed the agreement with the sheriff's department.

Stiglet Kent said Kent was from New Orleans.

Kent was the first fatality to have occurred at the plant and the first loss of life injury in three years.

Head soccer referee Richard Flowers remembers Scott as a "fine young man with an easy-going personality" who was helpful to the younger players when he served as a referee.

Academic excellence responsibility of all

The word education has different meanings to many. In Hancock County, emphasis is being placed on education with the words "academic excellence."

A great step towards academic excellence was made recently when Governor Kirk Fordice designated Hancock County as an America 2000 community.

It was great to see Governor Fordice on the steps of the Hancock County Courthouse signing the proclamation.

In order for Hancock County to reach these goals, it is necessary for the entire community to be involved.

A steering committee, composed of members of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Education Committee, has been diligently at work for over a year.

Through community meetings, gathering input from persons in business, government, industry and education and reviewing national goals, the group has set goals we feel are achievable.

These goals can only be reached with the cooperation of everyone in Hancock County.

The goals developed for Hancock County's America 2000 are as follows:

1. All children will come to school ready to learn, and parents will foster the desire to continue the learning process.

2. Our local high school graduation rate will improve.

3. Every school in Hancock County will offer a safe disciplined environment conducive to learning and will be free of violence and drugs (tobacco and alcohol).

4. Our children will leave grades 4, 8 and 12 having demonstrated competency in challenging subject matter including English, history, and geography and will excel in science and math.

5. Every school in Hancock County will expose all students to the arts for quality of life to ensure that all students learn to use their minds well. Then they will be prepared for responsible citizenship, further learning and productive employment in our modern society.

We suggest you re-read the above five goals and ponder each for a few minutes.

After that, we are sure you will realize it will take the efforts of every citizen of Hancock County to reach these goals.

Reaching these goals, everyone in Hancock County will benefit.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

A broader vision for Mr. Briggs

It was on a cold, dreary December day in 1986 that the brash young senator from DeKalb rose to make his point in a meeting of business leaders in East Mississippi.

The meeting was in Meridian; the topic, the need for civil justice reform.

Senator Eddie Briggs, from his seat in the audience, hammered away at proponents of change.

There was no need for change, he insisted; why should the Legislature even consider tort reform?

His arguments: there was no evidence of run-away lawsuits in Mississippi; there was no indication that the number of lawmen and women in the state had any connection to business; moreover, there was no need for additional standards and guidelines for juries and judges.

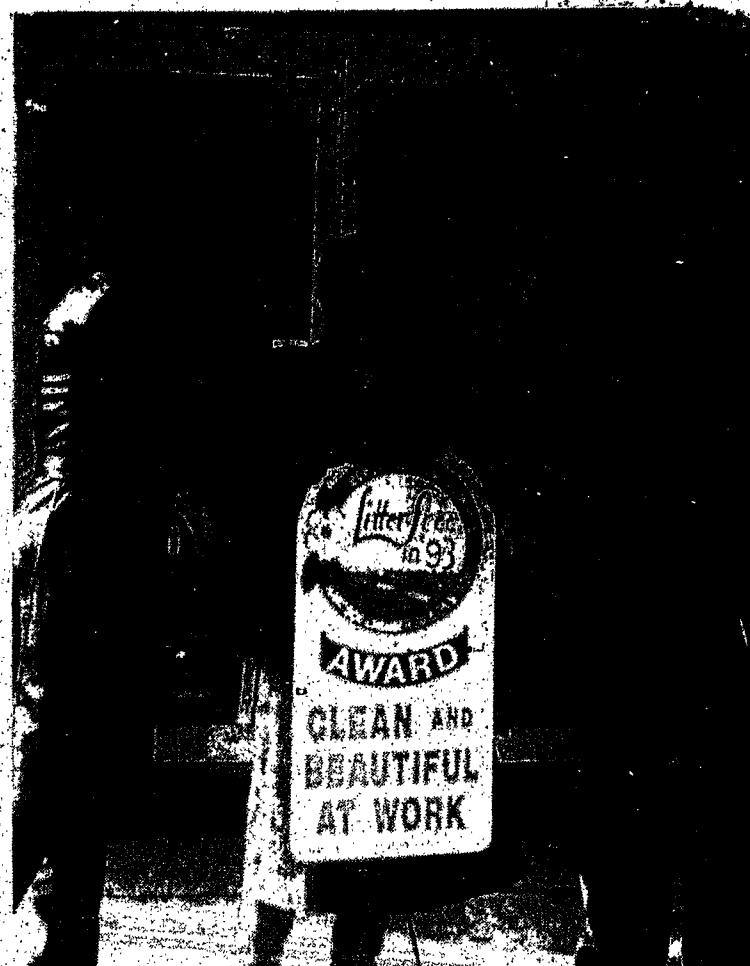

Business efforts to change tort law failed in the 1987 legislative session with Senator Briggs as the lone opposition.

Senator Eddie Briggs, and after trial lawyer, Eddie Briggs, left business alone in 1988, allowing relatively minor changes to be made.

In another struggle in 1989, tort reform efforts were defeated when the Mississippi House of Representatives, found in a 1989 session, that the state was being taken advantage of by the tort lawyers.

Now, Senator Eddie Briggs, the one-time brash young senator have been opened. There is new vision. He no longer sees the issue as an assault on trial lawyers; now he sees it as vital to Mississippi's economic advancement.

No longer is a senator just protecting the interest of his profession; now, as the state's highest-ranking executive officer, he has a vision for the needs of the state and its economic best interests.

"QUOTEABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I wonder how many purses and wallets are stolen from customers in our local stores.

Just this past week, a resident was shopping at a local supermarket and her wallet was lifted from her purse as she was distracted.

I see ladies on many occasions leave their purse in a grocery basket and walk across the aisle to pick up an item.

Just think, in about 30 minutes' time, there was already over $300 charged on the lady's credit card.

There are rings of people who work in teams to sneak a person's purse or wallet.

I suggest that everyone keep their purse and wallet in their hands while shopping.

Our store owners discourage theft on their premises, but, they too need the cooperation of the public.

It only takes seconds for a professional to lift your wallet, and many times you will not realize it until you look for it in your purse.

I saw three copies of an article written by Rheta Grimsley Johnson, a columnist, this week.

Herb Jeffrey let me read a copy of the article from a Pennsylvania newspaper; Bunk Gardner gave me a copy from a Birmingham, Ala. paper and Andre Arceau sent a copy from the Lafayette Advertiser.

The article is written about the Waveland Festival of Lights, and the columnist tells how Coleman Avenue was blocked off and how the merchants were so gracious in offering refreshments and cookies to those who attended.

She mentioned that her night in Waveland was the moment of this Christmas for her.

Waveland was compared to Norman Rockwell's holiday illustration for McCall's, "Stockbridge at Christmas."

I am glad to see Waveland receive some of the good praises it so deserves.

Leave it to governmental red tape to cost a city money.

I am referring to the Bay St. Louis Highway 90 lighting project which has been underway for some time.

Both Mississippi Power and Coast Electric offered to do cost-free design work, but had to be rejected because federal grant conditions require a contract with a licensed practicing engineer.

So, engineering fees will have to be absorbed by the city.

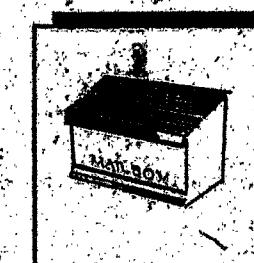

I am glad to say, one of the good things coming out of the project is Federal Aid Urban System Funds grant through federal and state highway departments, which will supply the greater amount of the 75/25 split.

I will be glad to see the project completed, as I know our city fathers have been working for some time to bring it together.

The Modern National Guard

Q: How much does a Mississippi Army National Guardsman earn?

A: Guardsmen are paid over $3 an hour starting out, serving approximately 45 days a year.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Diamondhead residents had no voice in fees levied

Dear Editor:

As a full-time resident of Diamondhead, I concur with the sentiments expressed by Capt. John F. Wheeless Sr. (Letters to the Editor column dated Jan. 24).

I believe the current Diamondhead POA board of directors has done a disservice to the membership in general. Before their recent actions, fire and security protection were included in the dues assessment. Garbage collection was an optional service provided by Waste Management Inc.

We now have additional charges for fire and security protection without a corresponding decrease in dues. Garbage collection is mandatory and under the auspices of the new Diamondhead Fire Protection District.

Pertinently, each entity will be clamoring for MORE money and, like the Diamondhead Water and Sewerage District, they will have the power to get it.

Responsible directors would solicit membership input before proposing legislation with this degree of impact. Final ratification should always be by a vote of the association.

Very truly yours,
Gregory L. Grant

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

Taylor supports military ban on homosexuals

If legislation is offered to Congress to end the military ban on homosexuals, U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor says he will strongly oppose it.

"I commend Secretary of Defense Les Aspin for his slow approach," said Taylor. "However, I echo the Secretary's remarks that any legislation lifting the ban will fail in Congress."

Taylor, who sits on the House Armed Services Committee, says lifting the ban would seriously impair the accomplishments of our nation's military mission. According to Taylor, President Clinton can suggest that Congress take action on this issue, but the Congress will have the final word.

In Article I, Section 8, of the Constitution, Congress shall have the power to make Rules for the Government and Regulation of land and naval forces," said Taylor. "Not the President."

"For the day to day decisions of the military, we should listen to those who are the most knowledgeable — our military leaders," said Taylor.

Taylor has been in agreement with Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Gen. Colin Powell from day one. In December, Powell publicly stated that he felt that lifting the ban would be disruptive to the armed services.

I agree with Gen. Colin Powell's request that the armed services continue to place our military's preparedness first and foremost on our nation's list of obligations," said Taylor. "These obligations should not be influenced by a political promise."

"With the need to revitalize our nation's industrial base, strengthen our Navy's strategic sea-lift capabilities and restore the health of our overall economy, I would hope President Clinton would drop this issue, which will inevitably fail, and continue with more pressing matters," Taylor said.

Possible new sand source delays beach bid openings

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Indications of a possible new sand source has prompted the county board of supervisors to defer the opening of contract bids for the Sand Beach Renourishment Project until February 16.

Project engineer Bill Mitchell requested the delay on Friday, after receiving a report that a suitable sand supply may exist nearer to the shoreline of Hancock County.

Mitchell stated, "I felt the information I was given was worth investigating."

"Should the location prove suitable, it would greatly reduce the cost per cubic yard and allow the supervisors to do more work."

He added, factors involved include a suitable location.

"One reason we may have overlooked this location in the past," Mitchell stated, "was because we did not look in areas with less than six feet of water."

"In the past, dredging along the coastline has proven to be a safety hazard. People have drowned."

According to Mitchell, proximity to oyster beds will be another factor to consider, as well as quantity and quality of sand.

The company hired to lay the pipeline to the planned Henderson Point Pass Christian sand bar location was investigating the best route when they discovered the potential sand source.

Board attorney Gerald Gex reported the board will vote Monday to make the delay legal.

Meanwhile, Gex added,

Waveland infant is NorthShore's 3,000th

Hilary Grace Thomas became the 3,000th baby born at The Women's Center of NorthShore Regional Medical Center Wednesday, January 20.

Delivered by Dr. Robert

Muller, she is the third daughter of Loretta and F. Mark Thomas of Waveland.

To celebrate the milestone in NorthShore Regional's history, executive director Nicholas J. Marzocco presented the parents with a $3,000 U.S. Savings Bond earmarked for the child's education.

"I can't think of a better way than to strengthen the future of our community through education. We will continue to present a $1,000 savings bond in a random drawing to a child born each month at The Women's Center. The bonds will be dedicated to higher education for the children," said Marzocco.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

Serving chicken often is one of the best and tastiest ways that I know to win the battle of the food budget without sacrificing flavor and nutrition. There are so many variations on the theme: just use your imagination, and make good use of whatever's on hand to come up with a delicious chicken dish.

As you well know, leftover (or planned-over) chicken is the basis of many a tasty entree. I like to roast a chicken, whole, with bits of orange, apple, cranberry and such spooned into the cavity. At other times, when I'm more ambitious, and want to "stretch" the dish, I mix up an oyster stuffing, or corn bread or rice dressing, all delicious.

One friend of mine buys a roasted or barbecued chicken at the deli counter and ends up with three or four meal items. At times, I like to bake chicken quarters (or when I'm a bit more "in the money" on the food budget, chicken breasts) atop a bed of shrimp and sausage jambalaya, but that's not everyday fare around my house, you may be sure!

For a quick dish for company or for every day, I brown a cut-up chicken, adding coarsely chopped onions, bell (green) peppers and celery and seasonings, and either fresh or canned peeled tomatoes, simmer until the chicken is tender and serve over rice. And one of my easy favorites is:

CHICKEN WITH ARTICHOKES AND MUSHROOMS

6 halved chicken breasts, skin removed
3 carrots, sliced
1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced
1 (14 oz.) can artichoke hearts, drained and halved or quartered as you like
1/4 cup vegetable oil

1/2 cup green onions, chopped
1 1/2 cups chicken broth
1/2 cup sherry or Chablis wine
2 Tbsp. cornstarch
Pepper, salt to your taste
A bit of fresh or dried thyme (optional)

Brown the chicken in the hot oil in a large skillet, of course, then simmer, covered, for five minutes or so. Add the mushrooms and artichoke hearts, along with the green onions and carrots and seasonings, and simmer for 10 minutes. If you're using thyme, add it at this point.

In a small saucepan, mix together the broth, sherry or white wine and cornstarch, stirring well, and cook over low to medium heat, stirring constantly, until it thickens. Place the chicken and vegetables in a greased, shallow baking dish, and pour the sauce over. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 45 minutes, or until chicken is done, basting from time to time with the pan drippings. (6 Servings)

Johnson named NASA's Purchasing Agent of Year

Diamondhead resident Jane Johnson was named NASA's Purchasing Agent of the Year for 1992 earlier this month during a presentation at John C. Stennis Space Center.

The award is an agency-wide distinction given yearly to a single NASA purchasing agent who demonstrates an outstanding level of work performance and the ability to handle many unique tasks.

Remark on the achievement, Johnson said, "I am thrilled... and I am proud that my supervisor and the management thought enough of me to nominate me for this award."

Johnson began her career at Stennis Space Center in 1978 as a secretary for the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration before joining NASA in 1981. She was promoted to contract specialist in 1992. In this capacity, Johnson negotiates purchases with vendors and manages the travel agency's contract that is located at SSC.

Don Bush, NASA assistant administrator for procurement, congratulated Johnson in a letter.

He wrote, "I was particularly impressed with the wide variety of responsibilities which you have handled, the amount of work you have performed, and your demonstrated ability to perform unique tasks and higher-level work in an outstanding manner."

"NASA, and your organization in particular, has clearly benefited from your work," Bush concluded.

The photograph taken of Johnson receiving her award plaque will be added to a collage of all award recipients at NASA Headquarters in Washington, D.C.

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. I checked all of the usual spots this past week. I mean I put a lot of miles on the Turtlemobile to get this week's report to the best place to find the fish.

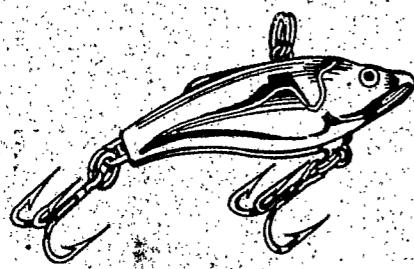

The best way to give you this week's report is to give you specific instructions as to the location of the fish:

Go along the beach road toward the west end of So. Beach Blvd. A couple of blocks after you pass Lakeshore Road and Murray's Bait shop, you will come to a gravel road that leads to the public launch on Bayou ing of about ENE for 3 and one-half miles, or until you come to a short wooden structure at the end of a broken concrete jetty.

Get out of your boat and proceed north for one quarter mile and you can't miss it—Big E Seafood. This is the place where I found the most fish this past week.

The monsoon rains of the past few weeks have turned almost all of the fishin' holes into mud puddles. To compound the bad news, I received word from LaFrance Fish Camp that the muddy water is almost all the way to Petit Pass in the Caddy. Launch your boat here and get into Bayou Caddy.

Once into Bayou Caddy, you need to head in the direction of open water. That will be to your left—your port side left not your starboard side left. Proceed out of the mouth of Bayou Caddy until you reach the first channel marker in the open water.

You should know that there is a channel marker right before you get out of the bayou. This channel marker is placed next to solid land.

Solid land is not usually considered "open water."

Anyway, once you get to the channel marker in open water, you gotta turn to your port side left and go on a compass head-

Louisiana Marsh and is moving east.

To even further compound the already compounded bad news, the only reports of any fish being caught were from the Petit Pass area before the fresh muddy water moved in.

I did receive several unconfirmed reports this past week that might be interesting. One report was of a large catch of flounder from around the Bay bridge. The flounder were reported to be caught using live cahoes fished on the bottom.

Incidentally, the only two places that I was able to find any cahoes was at Murray's Bait shop and at LaFrance.

Tax collector's office open Sat.

The Hancock County Tax Collector's office will be open Saturday from 8 a.m. until noon during the month of January for those wishing to pay taxes.

Follow these directions to find fish in the area

The other unconfirmed report was of a three and one-half pound sac-a-lait that was caught on a five-pound cricket, or was it a five-pound sac-a-lait that was caught on a three and one-half pound cricket, at the Bayou LaCroix boat launch?

speed. It is not hard to reason out what came next. The operator went swimming. It's too cold to go swimming!

The royal table was adorned with large silver candelabra with an assortment of live flowers in the center of each. Glittering white and purple magnolia arrangements were featured on the other tables.

Offices of the Krewe of Diamondhead were introduced by the master of ceremony and president, Stan Robert. Other officers are Jerry Bourg, treasurer; Chris Arnos, parade lieutenant; Hilda L. Bourg, publicity lieutenant; Ronnie Bankston, way and means lieutenant and Laura Almerico, decoration chairperson.

Trumpets sounded to announce the arrival of the captain, Benny Mistretta. He promenaded around the floor while the band played Mardi Gras music.

The maids and the dukes for the carnival season were introduced in couples.

They are Billie Bahner, escorted by Bill Bahner; Lynn Bankston, escorted by Tom McCoy; Alice Burkhardt, escorted by Henry Burkhardt, also social lieutenant; and Wanda Newman, escorted by Ed Newman.

Each maid wore a pictureque ballgown and the dukes were each attired in a tux with a gold baldric.

The roll of drums heralded the 1992 royalty, King Ali'i Honua XVII Jerry Reshev and Queen Gertrude Wadlington. They made their final promenade around the ballroom to the official song of carnival, "If Ever I Cease to Love." Wadlington was attired in white fitted silk sheath, studded with iridescent bugle beads, gold sequins, pearls and clear stones.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of the 1993 royal couple, King Ali'i Honua XVIII Paul Snemyr and Queen Gisela Rainey. Rainey wore a gold and silver brocaded ball gown with a train attached at the waist.

The newly crowned king gave his royal proclamation granting anyone who played golf better scores and declaring the beginning of the Diamondhead carnival festivities.

An official toast by the captain was given on behalf of the members and guests to the 1993 royal couple for a happy and exciting reign.

The 1993 king and queen of the sea from the Krewe of Kamehameha were recognized. King Akua Kai XIX Bob Wood and Queen Lee Fredian.

and Queen Lee Fredian.

Past royalty from the Krewe of Kamehameha who were present and members of the Krewe of Diamondhead were 1992 Queen Pat Stafford; 1983 King Lou Cotton; 1986 Queen Jean Keen; 1990 King R. B. Boatright and his Queen Nina Cotton; 1991 Queen Nell Dennis and 1992 King Bud Barnes.

Music was provided by "Take Five" for the coronation ceremony and for the dinner-dance which followed.

On Saturday morning, the officers and special guests presented the 1993 royal couple with flags to be flown throughout the carnival season signifying their royalty. Afterwards, a brunch was hosted by the 1993 queen at her residence in Pass Christian.

The Mardi Gras Ball will be Saturday, Feb. 13, and the parade will begin at 2 in the afternoon on Saturday, Feb. 20 with the theme of "Circus."

American Legion Auxiliary nat. president visits Unit 139

Special to the Echo
This past week Clement R. Bontemps Unit 139 of the American Legion Auxiliary welcomed their national president.

She was in Bay St. Louis to present a Special Forces workshop.

A new era of leadership began for the women of the American Legion Auxiliary when Linda Boone of Tigard, Oregon, was elected as the 1992-93 national president of the all-volunteer organization at the 72nd annual convention in Chicago.

Linda Boone is a product of the educational and professional opportunities which women have created for themselves over the last two decades.

In addition to being a very capable and talented executive, a corporate trainer and the owner of her own management consulting firm, she has undertaken a new challenge as the chief executive officer of the American Legion Auxiliary's million-member volunteer service organization.

Auxiliary members believe that this no-nonsense career woman with the volunteer's heart of gold offers their organization the best of both worlds—professional management expertise, combined with a deep and personal dedication to the cause of America's veterans.

As the American Legion Auxiliary approaches its 73rd year and the 21st century, Boone and her auxiliary colleagues face many changes and challenges from within and without. She was in Bay St. Louis to talk with auxiliary members about a few of the very important programs her volunteers are working on this year.

Approximately 103 American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary members came out to hear her speak. She addressed the subjects of conducting meetings and dealing with difficult people.

She gave each person a work-book filled with information. Her presentation lasted about an hour and a half and upon completion of the workshop she presented everyone with a certificate of completion.

A reception in her honor followed the workshop, and a carnival theme was carried out in the decoration and the food. The table was decorated with masks, beads, doubloons and umbrellas. It was centered with a large cheese mold in the shape of a crown. Green punch was served in keeping with the color scheme; purple napkins embossed with masks and her name in gold were used to serve the King Cake for dessert.

Unit 139 President Susan Piazza, presented Boone with a gift from the Unit, Bay St. Louis own Lou Wilkerson, state president of the American Legion Auxiliary, traveled with Boone and introduced her to the group. Shirley Clemons of Unit 139 was chairman of the committee that prepared for the visit and hosted the reception.

Valentine tea

The St. Monica's Guild of Trinity Episcopal Church in Pass Christian is hosting a Valentine tea open to the public to be held on Friday, February 12, from 3 to 5 p.m. at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Harry A. Danielson, 849 E. Scenic Drive. Proceeds donated support numerous charities throughout Mississippi. Pictured from left are Mrs. William M. Morris, Mrs. Phillip Schaefer, and Mrs. Marvin Mingle.

Library receives MacArthur grant

The Hancock County Library System has received a grant as part of its ongoing participation with the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation.

Called the MacArthur Foundation Video Classics Project, the Foundation has made available a gift of The MacArthur Library Video Classics Project, consisting of approximately 25 video cassettes selected from existing quality film/video productions dealing with the Foundation's areas of programmatic interest.

The goal of this project is to enhance the video collections of public libraries. Because educational materials like these "classics" are normally many times the cost of normal films mass-produced for the home video market, many public library collections lack these educational programs.

Through the MacArthur Library Video Classics Project, distributors of PBS programs agreed to a 90% reduction in the price of their programs.

The six areas included in the project are:

—Health: primarily research on mental health and the biology of parasitic diseases;

—MacArthur Fellows: five-year unrestricted grants to exceptionally creative individuals;

—Peace and International Cooperation: strengthening institutional and individual international values;

—World Environment and Resources: focusing on these issues worldwide;

—Special Grants: supporting cultural and community activities in Chicago and Palm Beach County, Fla.

—General: supporting projects in mass communication, institutional support, education and population studies.

The MacArthur Library includes videos, promotional material and teaching guides targeted to use by individuals, clubs, schools and others with interest in these areas of Foundation support.

Further information on this program is available by calling the City-County Public Library at 467-5282.

Student Space Station seeks applicants

Mississippi's Student Space Station project is accepting applications for its summer sessions. Students in grades 6 and above are eligible to become one of 32 participants per mission (2 missions have been planned for 1993.)

Each must submit an outline of a scientific project or experiment that can be performed aboard a real space station. The students whose experiment proposals show particular merit are further evaluated through teacher recommendations and interviews by the Student Selection Committee.

The 14-day residency at the facilities in Jackson includes a 96-hour spaceflight "mission" in the $200,000 simulator located at the Russell C. Davis Planetarium. Students also utilize science laboratories at Belhaven College and stay in the campus dorms.

Applications and further information may be obtained by contacting the Student Space Station office at the Russell C. Davis Planetarium, P.O. Box 22826, Jackson, MS 39225-2826, phone 960-1550.

Environmental cause donation

Wal-Mart donated $350 to Gulfview Elementary for an environmental project to create a bird sanctuary on the school grounds. It will provide a safe and natural haven for birds. Each grade in the school will take part in the development of the project. Pictured above from left are Genitte Butsch, Gulfview media specialist, and Don North, Gulfview principal, receiving the check from Jack Latil, Wal-Mart store manager. (Echo staff photo by Liz Haas)
